

DISTANT ROADS is the longest running, most widely watched family road travel television series in the world - entering its 24th consecutive season in Fall 2013.

Each week, DISTANT ROADS presents an up-close and personal tour of great family vacation destinations; showing you their historical significance, as well as their current day characteristics and influence on our country.

You'll experience firsthand; the recreational, cultural and historical attractions of a region while learning about its sights, sounds, geography and weather; complimented by useful "if you go" information and Google Maps™

We're on the move by car, RV, boat & motorcycle and we're always sure to stay at fun places like campgrounds, marinas, national/state parks; each with its own strong family & kid's emphasis.

In fact, DISTANT ROADS complies with FCC Children's Television Rules by furthering the educational and informational needs of children 13 years of age and up.

So much so, that DISTANT ROADS is now used in many Geography and American History classes and is available at most public libraries!

The Automobile Club of America (AAA) estimates that 83% of all Americans planning to travel for leisure or fun will do it on the road.

Some 60% of these road travelers regularly enjoy fishing; while 50% will attend spectator-sporting events like football games and motor sports while on the road.

Sounds like your viewers, doesn't it?
